PASTORAL LETTER

Dear Friends

During 2020 and 2021, we've rediscovered old ways and found new ways to connect with each other. When we weren't allowed to meet, there were many more phone calls, as well as video calls of various kinds. Some of us went for more walks – with others as and when restrictions allowed. Greater confidence with video calls meant that some people had more contact than before with those who live elsewhere – in this country or abroad.

Despite all of this, however, many of us missed being in the same physical space as family and friends, we missed being able to put an arm round a shoulder or to be given a hug.

Perhaps we've come to understand and to value what 'being with' means to us. Remote contact is not the same. As we approach Christmas 2021, it's worth remembering a verse from Matthew's gospel about Jesus (Matt 1 v23): "They shall name him 'Emmanuel', which means God is with us".

Many children, when asked about how they picture God, describe or draw something akin to an old man sitting on a cloud in the sky, or maybe at this time of year someone rather like Father Christmas! One is rather remote, the other rather like a fairy tale.

What the first Christmas assures us of, with the birth of Jesus, is a much closer relationship and a presence in all aspects of life – the wonder of a new birth and the pain of giving birth, especially far from home and in a stable.

Wherever you are spending this Christmas, whoever you are with this Christmas, may you know the wonder and the strengthening that, in Jesus and through the Holy Spirit, God is with you.

With best wishes and prayers

ST ALKMUND'S CHRISTMAS FAIR

A lovely vibrant and busy event. Well done to Hilda and her team. Total raised (so far) is £1500

FAULS CRIB FESTIVAL

Holy Immanuel Church, Fauls

Following on from previous years' successful festivals, we are again inviting people to share and view a vast array of nativity scenes, including some especially for children which they are able to handle and others from around the world with their own interpretations, in Holy Immanuel Church on Saturday 18th December between 10am and 3pm.

Seasonal refreshments will be available.

If you have a crib or nativity display that you would be happy to share with others this Christmas would you like to bring it to Holy Immanuel Church on Friday 17th December between 10pm and 3pm.

If this time is not convenient please make arrangements with Rev Sue.

FTW BIBLE STUDY

I do wonder where 2021 went to when I wasn't looking and I expect you do the same. Will things ever get back to normality, or is this normality?

We have had a good attendance even though some have not come back yet, we await that pleasure in the future

As far as Bible Study is concerned we started back in September by looking at the Letters of St Peter. We have finished them now and have just started to study the Creeds, just four of them. We have been very fortunate in that one of the group studied the Creeds as part of her St John's course from Nottingham University some years ago and has added her 'two penneth' which has been very profitable. My friend worked on the Nicene Creed and I chose the Apostles Creed, so between the two of us it's being an interesting study. I added the Baptismal and what I call the 'family' creed. So it has been very good.

When I asked the group what they want to do next, one of them said 'The Lord's Prayer' and then perhaps the Book of Numbers in the Old Testament. That will be very challenging for me to produce a leaflet on 'Numbers' - a Book I haven't studied myself although bits of it will be familiar. This will be my work in the Christmas holidays. Notice I still think of myself as being back at school and writings about 'terms' and holidays. I do forget at times that I've been retired over 30 years. Still keeping very busy and not knowing where some days go!

I would like to wish you all a very Happy Christmas whatever you will be doing and seeing, if we're allowed to that is! We are hoping to see the family on Saturday, 18th December in Shrewsbury and have our usual Christmas lunch at the Beacon.

Let's hope 2022 will be a happier New Year for us all

Celia

On the 11th Hour of the 11th Day of the 11th Month... ..

We Shall Remember Them

Remembrance, a time when we show our respect and eternal thanks not only to all those who laid down their lives in War but also those who selflessly put (or have put) their lives on the line everyday in the service of others.

Who do you think of in those 2 precious minutes of silence?

I start in the past with the men and women of the first and second world wars those that died, those that suffered, those they left behind, those that we know of the; soldiers, Airmen and Naval men but also those behind the scenes the code breakers, spies and those in the many groups of resistance fighters. Those from other wars, Korea, Vietnam, Argentina, Afghanistan, Iran& Iraq and conflicts world wide.

Then now and going forward; the Armed Forces, Fire Fighters, Police Officers, Medics/care workers. The men and women of the RNLI, the Coastguard, Relief Workers, the Person in the street who jumps in to help, and the many more who put US before THEMSELVES.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY

The children/young people of Tilstock School joined with Church members and villagers in gathering around the Cenotaph and laying the wreaths that they had made in school and the official schools' posy. They understood the gravity of the occasion and acted with dignity and respect, impressing the adults that were present.

Fauls had a Remembrance Service on the evening of Remembrance Sunday and In Whitchurch there was a short act of Remembrance at the Cenotaph before the Civic Service at St Alkmund's.

Tilstock

In addition to the Remembrance Sunday services held in church and at the Cenotaph, St Alkmund's hosts, on its front steps, the Armistice Day Last Post & 2 minute Silence. This gathering, started many years ago with just a couple of Rotarians attending with a tape recording of a bugler playing the Last Post, over time it has grown, year on year, into a gathering of around 30 with an actual Bugler! This year respect was not only shown to all the people we traditionally remember on this day, but in an act of kindness and chivalry when a young man took off his coat and put it on a wet bench for our verger, Pauline Stokes, to sit on. A simple act but one which will not be forgotten.

Prayer Update November 2021

It had been a very hot day and I was frustrated that the builder had spent several hours applying more concrete to the new support for the water tank. I gave him a hostile look as he was packing up when I realized that I faced more delays to getting reconnected to the mains. After a week of bucket washes, I went to my friend Wendy 3 doors away for a shower. I later felt guilty about my bad attitude. A lot of people in my neighbourhood never have indoor running water and in many parts of Kenya, cattle are dying because the water pans have dried up and the population have no mains water supply at all.

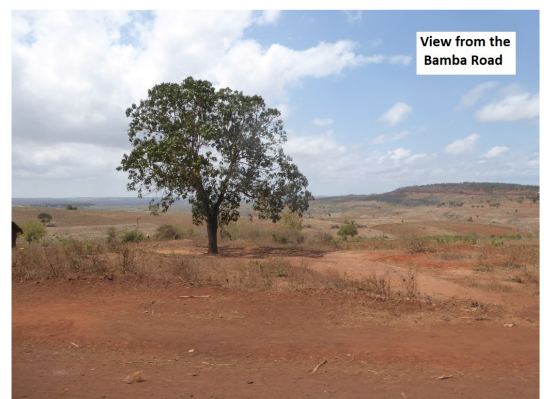

Removing the Water Tank

Termite damage to Window Frame

Last Monday before the house repairs started, I was delighted to get out of Kilifi town to pay a courtesy call to the Ganze sub-county health management team who were meeting in Bamba 56 kilometres away. I got the chance to view the countryside inland from the tropical coastal strip. There were lots of clouds but only a few light drops of rain. This should be the second month of the short rainy season but La Nina (and climate change) has prevented any significant rainfall.

The new Newborn Unit (NBU) has finally opened and looks smart and sounds very echoey- it's got about 10 times more space than the old one. The mothers now each have their own beds to sleep on and there is a dedicated room for kangaroo mother care. Matron Mataza told me she still has only 6 trained nurses for the NBU, which works out at 1 per shift, and she is very dependent on students. The county government needs to rise to the staffing challenge.

This month Martha, Jay and I are working on our study proposal for maternal micronutrient supplementation to present to a Gates Foundation workshop of technical experts on November 23rd and 25th. It's online and for us it runs from 5pm but for those in Seattle its starts at 6am and partners in Bangladesh at 8pm!

Thank you all for your continued prayer support.

With love in Christ,

Alison
